Olivia Anne Photography UK

and they lived happily ever after...

To many of us, our wedding day is one of the most special days of our lives.

We spend years planning and preparing and once the day is over, it is the memories that last forever.

This is where photography comes in.

About me...

Hi, I'm Olivia.

I'm 28 and I've been obsessed with taking photos for as long as I can remember- starting with a Barbie disposable camera and probably using up the whole roll in one afternoon. That love for capturing moments never really went away.

I'm a big fan of all things 2000s nostalgia, pop rock playlists, dogs... actually, all animals and anything creative. I love making spaces feel warm and cosy- the more fairy lights, the better!

When I'm not behind the camera, you'll usually find me curled up on the sofa watching trashy TV, heading out for long walks, or attempting to convince myself I enjoy running (I'm working on it). I believe photography should feel relaxed, fun and natural- just like a good chat with a friend- and that's exactly the approach I bring to every shoot.

My approach

My photography is all about natural light and making the most of whatever the day brings. I love capturing real moments and genuine connections- the laughter, the happy tears, the reactions and the big reveals. Those are the moments I really thrive in. I'll be there when you need a calm, friendly presence and quietly step back when you don't, letting everything unfold naturally. That's when the most authentic photos happen. Being trusted to capture memories you'll look back on for a lifetime is something I never take for granted- it's a pretty special part of the job!

All the moments that matter

The start of the day

I usually arrive around 2–3 hours before the ceremony, when the morning is settling into its rhythm and everyone is starting to feel a bit more camera-ready. This part of the day is often one of the most relaxed and joyful- music playing in the background, everyone hanging out chatting and preparing themselves for the amazing day ahead.

I'll be quietly capturing all the natural moments as they happen- glasses clinking, final touches of makeup, happy laughter with friends and family and those little in-between moments where nerves are eased and excitement builds. Nothing is rushed or overly posed; it's all about documenting the atmosphere and emotions as they naturally unfold.

During this time, I'll also photograph the groom and groomsmen getting ready too- whether that's music on, ties being adjusted or a few calm moments before heading off.

It's really helpful if the bride is fully ready around 30 minutes before leaving for the ceremony. This gives us time for a few relaxed bridal portraits before things start to move- a calm pause before the day truly begins.

I'll also take the opportunity to photograph the venue while it's still empty, capturing all the thoughtful details before guests arrive and the celebrations begin.

The Ceremony

The ceremony is where all the emotions really come together. From the moment guests take their seats, I'll be quietly capturing everything as it unfolds- the nervous smiles, the proud looks, the happy tears and those little glances that say everything without a word.

I work in a discreet, unobtrusive way during the ceremony, blending into the background so you can stay fully present in the moment. I'll move carefully to capture the key moments- the walk down the aisle, vows, ring exchange, reactions from loved ones, and of course, that just-married moment at the end.

Nothing is staged or interrupted and I'll never ask you to repeat anything. My focus is on telling the story exactly as it happens so you can look back and relive the emotions just as they felt on the day.

The Formal Photos

After the confetti chaos, we'll take a little time for some mantelpiece-worthy photos- the kind you'll proudly point out to guests for years to come. I'll gently guide you through this part so nothing feels stiff or awkward, keeping everything relaxed, natural and very you.

Once those are done, I'll quietly sneak you away for a few just-married moments together. No crowds, no cameras in your face- just a chance to breathe, soak it all in and enjoy that "we actually just did that" feeling while your guests are busy with drinks, music and celebrations.

You'll be back in plenty of time to enjoy your yummy food, catch up with loved ones and get straight back to the party- no long disappearances, just the perfect little pause in the middle of an unforgettable day.

As the day unfolds

As the day continues, I'll be there to capture the speeches- from the heartfelt words and proud moments to the laughter, happy tears and the reactions you might have missed in the moment. These are always some of the most emotional parts of the day and I focus on documenting them naturally as they unfold.

If the timing (and the weather) allows, we'll sneak out again during golden hour- that dreamy, soft light just before the sun sets. It's a perfect chance for a few relaxed, romantic portraits and a quiet moment together while the party carries on inside.

Nothing too long or complicated, just a gentle wander and some beautiful light. As the evening rolls in, it's all about the celebration. From the first dance to the dance floor chaos, I'll be there capturing the energy, the hugs, the moves (good and questionable) and all the moments that make the night unforgettable. I'll stay until we've told the full story- right through to the laughter, the joy and the best kind of end-of-day magic.

The next day, after all the celebrations have taken place, I will send over a few sneak peaks to keep the excitement going. The full gallery will then be edited in my go-to style and sent to you within 4 weeks via a password protected online gallery. Once it arrives, it's time to slow things down- curl up on the sofa, pour a glass of something nice, grab some chocolates and relive the day all over again.
